To the Graduates

Comrade, it isn't the past with its memories
That makes the world to move;
It isn't the things that might have been,
And it isn't the fights you lose.
It isn't the thought you used to think,
Nor it isn't the acts you have done
That counts on the road you are taking,
For your life has just begun.

Look forward where the rising sun
Of hope is leaping high,
With its rays of truth and knowledge
Drive the shadows from the sky.
See, the press of man is upward,
Though the trail is mighty rough,
And the man who wins is mighty,
For the world doesn't stand for bluff.

It doesn't ask "What have you done?"
It looks you in the eye.
It gives you a chance to fight with the strong,
And the weak man is bound to die.
Youth with its hopes and follies shall fade,
And the struggle of life begin;
So here on the threshold of life you stand—
Hit hard, play fair, and win!

The Influence of Music

MUSIC is the Cinderella of arts casually observed, incidentally admired, but generally treated as of no serious importance in the presence of her more favored sisters, painting and poetry. Music is the universal language speaking to all nations alike, needing no interpreter to unfold her melody, or convey her ideas and emotions.

For some unknown reason music exerts a wonderful influence on us. She makes the tears trickle down our cheeks, but we cannot trace their source. She arouses courage in the heart of man and brings the tears from the heart of woman. Music has been called the medicine of the breaking heart and she has rightly been named, for in our saddest hours she is our great comfort—soothing us and caressing us in her own sweet way. When grief wounds the heart and oppresses the mind, music comes with her silver sound and her golden touch and banishes all our woes. We love music for the buried hopes, the garnered memories, the tender feelings she can summon at a touch. She recalls the past, makes us feel the present and foretells the future. Music is the rainbow of promise translated from seeing into hearing, the language of another world. What can awaken the soul's instinct, what can convey emotion, what can arouse feeling in the heart of the hearer, as can music?

Our lives are made better because of music. We are lifted far beyond the cares of every-day life and our souls are washed from the dust of such a life. We are lifted to a higher realm which could never be attained without the aid of music. The whole world seems brighter to us. At the touch of music all the bonds and fetters which hold us are broken and we realize the freedom of the soul, and a confidence in the purposes of our Creator is inspired.

God has given us many gifts, but the fairest and most glorious gift of all is music. Bulwer has said, "Music, once admitted to the soul, becomes a sort of spirit that never dies. It wanders perturbedly through the halls and galleries of memory and is often heard again, distinct and living, as when it first displaced the wavelets of the air."

Music has been called the fourth material want of our nature—first, food; then raiment, then shelter, then music. This would indeed be a dreary world without music to quicken our steps and make our hearts lighter.

Ricard has said, "It is in learning music that many youthful hearts learn to love." Musical history reveals many happy marriages; e. g., Robert and Clara Schumann, Eyard and Nina Grieg, Felix and Cecile Mendelssohn and many others. Musical couples are, in fact, very happy couples when they have in them the traits of character which under any other conditions would result in a happy marriage. The music has very little to do with the question, except that it gives the "marriages" a common intellectual and artistic bond which may bring a kind of delight unknown to couples who have no such mutual interest.

Music in the home brings one of the greatest joys of life to every member of the household. The father will stay at home from town any night to hear his little daughter play or sing. It draws the members of the family nearer to one another and binds them together by a golden chain not easily broken. It murmurs in the ear of the child and the child sleeps. Its tones are companions of his dreams—they are the world in which he lives.

When we know we are nearing the end of life's journey our thoughts turn to God, our Father, and to Heaven. Only soft strains, only a few sweet words, but could we think of a sweeter way to express our last thoughts?

When the faint hope was gone to those who remained on the Titanic, the eight musicians lined up on the deck. Then solemnly and quietly the leader waved his staff, hands flew to instruments and over the ice laden water floated the strains of one of the sweetest hymns ever written:

"Nearer, my God, to Thee!
Nearer to Thee!
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me,
Still all my song shall be
Nearer, my God to Thee,
Nearer to Thee."

To their playing more than fifteen hundred souls passed from life.

ROUNDUP

Whose heart does not swell with pride and beat faster when it hears "America" or the "Star Spangled Banner" played? What is it that arouses our soldiers and urges them to the front? What is it that induces them to leave their wives and children and those they love? What is it that spurs them on to give their lives for their country? Explain it as we may, a martial strain will urge a man to the front rank of battle sooner than an argument, and a fine anthem will excite his devotion more certainly than a logical discourse.

Oh, friends, respond to this wonderful art of music, with its meaning so deep, its voice so melodious, its charm so soothing.

"Of all the arts beneath the heaven
That man has found or God has given,
None draws the soul so sweet away,
As music's melting, mystic lay;
Slight emblem of the bliss above,
It soothes the spirit all to love."

—EDNA BARNES, '14.

Freedom

Hence loathed books
Of Physics and dry Latin written
By ancient authors long since dead,
'Mongst ancient ruin, and war, and trembling looks,
Find out some unused room,
And there remain, in blackest gloom.
But come, thou ranch home, dear and free,
And let me with the home folks be,
To hear the birds forever sing
And never hear the school bells ring.
To see the sun set in the west,
I love to watch it go to rest
Beyond the plain so wide and free
That looks so big to little me,
And all day long to be out doors,
Away from books and other bores
That make one sad and worried ever
To ride abroad, whate'er the weather.
On winter days to go off skating,
For school and books not ever waiting,
But going when I wish to go
Across the fields of ice and snow.
When summer comes to hunt for flowers,
By wayside brooks and shady bowers;
To go out wading in the streams
Or in the shade to dream day-dreams;
To dances and picnics we'd sometimes go,
And oft on the river we'd slowly row,
To while away the sunny hours—
And these would all be happy days
Where that old Physics never stays.

NOT merely to exist, but to amount to something, is life. At no time is the truth of this statement more clearly shown than in the present age which puts into practice the familiar quotation that "No man liveth unto himself."

The choice of mere existence or undaunted aggressiveness is left to every individual and is determined only by his character, environment, and training. Aside from one's own character, nothing is so great a factor in determining his future as his training; and training builds character to so great an extent that it is the greatest essential to him who would rise in the world.

Life is a school, but to find a more concrete example of training we have but to turn to the high schools and colleges of our land. Not merely to pass, but to better our best is life in school. The number of pupils who are content to drift along with no fixed aim in school, and no desire for improvement is in later life a boon to the great army of those who merely exist. On the other hand, those who are alive and awake to the opportunities offered them by education receive in full the benefits of training and augment the growing band of those who amount to something.

The age is past when men can achieve greatness without education. It is so closely wrapped up in the intellectual and moral progress of mankind that it has become a part of progress and a stepping stone to success. As educational advantages increase, so must each succeeding generation redouble its efforts to achieve all that opportunity offers, else it will be judged a failure. There is no longer a comparison between nineteenth century achievement and twentieth century opportunity. The world has become too keen in its estimate of greatness to make such an error. One hundred years ago greatness was accorded in proportion to the extent that one's achievements measured up to his opportunity. Now, greatness is accorded in precise proportion to the extent that one's success outweighs the opportunities of his time.

Never before in the history of mankind have greater educational advantages been offered to a greater number. In the words of Huxley, our educational system is like a "ladder on which the youth who has the strength may climb from the gutter into the university." It would seem then that education is not only the most essential thing to success, but also the easiest path to reach the coveted goal. The world has come to realize that the man who has both a vocational and avocational training, and who makes the best of it, is the man of the hour; for short-hour legislation would prove a curse instead of a blessing if the time not devoted to rest and sleep were spent in dissipation and an unprofitable manner. Education in its broadest sense has been defined as "the power which enables one to do what he ought to do, when it ought to be done, and whether he wants to do it or not." We all have a work to do, and we must do it if we comply with this test of education. Therefore let us "lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us and run with patience the race which is set before us" and we are sure to win success.

There is but one other career than that of progress and that is retrogression. It is by far the most successful career, in that many find retrogression more to their liking than progression; but it is in no way affiliated with life. We are all endowed with the right to live, but many improve so few of life's opportunities that their career is little more than existence.

A lofty aim in life, a clear conception of right and wrong, and a resoluteness of purpose are inducements which lure humanity to the goal marked Success. The pathways to success are narrow and rough, but he who climbs safely the path of life, however humble be his station or unnoticed his mark in the world, has the satisfaction of claiming for himself some coveted reward and of having lived life as it should be lived, which after all is the happier way. And to all the world he may issue the challenge "I have done all that becomes a man. Who dares do more?"

—W. S., '15.

Domestic Science

IN the cooking department we not only learn how to prepare the food for the table so that it both looks attractive and is palatable, but also the different values of the food through various methods of preparation.

The class has taken notes in ink on, cereals in general, classification and value of fruits, the classification of foods, the functions of the foodstuffs, besides the recipes and general directions.

We have made experiments with baking powder and soda, afterwards writing what we did and the results in our note-books.

The whys and wherefores of cooking are made clear to us. We have learned what the baking powder does to the cake, that to make bread, the more you work it the better it is, but the less you work pie crust the better it is, what makes the jelly jell, why baked potatoes are more nutritious than boiled potatoes, and so on.

Every day we are supposed to practice, neatness, quickness, economy, and accuracy. We often burn our fingers and singe our hair, and often fallen cakes and burnt pies are the results of our mistakes, but we learn by making mistakes.

Our first lessons were upon different ways to cook potatoes, then came different kinds of soups, cereals, muffins, biscuits, cakes and pies, and lastly bread. Once a month comes a reckoning day in which we find out how little we know about the notes which we have put safely away in our note books instead of our brains. Then too there is cleaning day which all good housekeepers must observe and likewise cooking pupils. On these days we thoroughly clean all our dishes and desks and set things neat and orderly on the pantry shelves.

The girls, during the year have prepared and served several luncheons. The first was given to members of the high school faculty. Everything served was made by the class during the class period. The Menu consisted of—

Cream of Tomato Soup
Creamed Chicken in Timbal Cases
Mashed Potatoes
Perfection Salad
Hot Rolls	Bread Sticks
Celery	Olives
Cheese Crackers
Salt Almonds
Cocoanut Sponge	Cream Cake
Coffee

ROUND UP

The second event was in the nature of an afternoon tea given to members of the Shakespeare Club. The Menu consisted of

Gelatin Salad
Sandwiches
Ice Cream and Cake
Mints Salted Almonds
Coffee

Another luncheon was given. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Largent, the men of the faculty and their wives, and Mr. McMullen.

The last luncheon was given to the members of the Board of Education and their wives.

The Sewing Department

OF all the departments in the High School, certainly there is not one more interesting or instructive than the Sewing department under the supervision of Miss Hagerman.

The Freshmen are finishing the sewing they are required to do and are spending one day each week on the study of textiles. The first piece required, an embroidered night-dress, showed the talents of the girls for making original designs, as the majority made their own for embroidering. Besides the other things, the class have finished a negligee, a petticoat, a tailored waist, a large apron, and have made a corset cover by hand to send to California.

In the textile work, the girls are required to keep a note-book of samples and they have spent many afternoons searching through old scrap-bags in the attic for samples of batiste, cambric, linen and many other materials for their note-books.

The second year work has been especially interesting as the girls have been allowed to choose their own pieces, and it is surprising to see the great variety. Under-clothes are the articles most commonly made but party and house dresses, street skirts, and a great many fancy waists may be added to the list of things that have been completed.

Exhibit

AN exhibit of the work done in the Manual Training department of this school has been sent to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. It consisted of cabinet and wood-turned work. The wood-turned work was first sent to the Panama-California exposition at San Diego and later to San Francisco.

The wood-turning work is contained in a frame four by nine feet. It is so arranged that it can be hung from a wall, so it will not escape the notice of anyone. The frame is painted white, along the top of which are the gilt letters spelling "Great Falls," and along the bottom "Montana." The work is well arranged and ingeniously fastened to a back-ground of green burlap. In the center is a white ring within which are the letters "H. S." Spindles, stocking darners, pin trays, card trays, dumb-bells, Indian clubs, and nut bowls make up the greater part of the display.

The cabinet work consisted of a chair and table and was sent direct to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. They are both very good pieces of workmanship.

Only a short time was used in making the wood-turned work, but it was well done. The exhibit will give those who attend the fair an idea of what this school is capable of doing and will add greatly to this school's display there.

Hugh Cameron made the following pieces to be sent: the words "Great Falls" of gilded pine; the ring with the letters "H. S."; an Indian Club of pine and cherry glued together, then varnished; and a nut bowl six inches in diameter, two and one half inches deep and stained mahogany.

Music Notes

ON Friday, March 26th the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs in the High School united in giving an "Old Folks Concerte and Entertainment." It was divided into four acts:

1st—Ye Donation Partie to ye Parson.

2nd—Ye Singin' Skewl.

3rd—Ye Grande Concerte.

4th—Ye Olde Plantation Melodies, sung by Ye Boys' Glee Club in the woods near the home of General George Washington.

All were dressed in costumes of ye olden times. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed and unusually well attended, every seat in the auditorium being sold. The combined Glee Clubs number about 70 members.

VETERANS of the foot ball team! You are the heroes of many a hard fought game. Your names were mentioned with honor after many of the splendid games you took part in. When you were on the gridiron, you put everything into your plays, and never failed to fight. If luck turned against you, you never gave up the fight. Even when the ball was within striking distance of your goal you played like men. Like a machine you worked together and, if any man slid wrong, he was corrected and encouraged to do better. Even if your team were outweighed, your cool heads and nerve won many a game for you that was not expected. Your captain ran your team and the team did not run themselves. This has ruined many good teams. There is nothing that ruins many a well trained team more than to have the men on that team try to do as they please and not work with one another like a machine. Your never-give-up-fighting ability has won games for you that otherwise would have been lost. If your coach took you out of the game and put some other player in your place, you never acted like a cad but encouraged your substitute like a man. Foot Ball sooner or later shows up the yellow streaks or cowards. It is not a game for cowards but for men, men who have high ambitions and who are sure to succeed in the world. He who plays foot ball and plays with all his might will surely play his future game in the world as well. Often times individuals are called men, who have gained their success in someone else's sphere. A real man never robs anyone else to help himself but fight his own battles. You have proved to be men, and not the would-be kind, and I hope that our team and the future teams will follow your example. I am sure that if we and those who follow us will honor the work, the Great Falls High School will never be ashamed of its team.

—FRANK JORDAN.

FOOTBALL SQUAD 1914

Basket Ball

THE Basket Ball team that represented Great Falls at the state tournament at Bozeman this year accomplished more than any previous team.

Great Falls lost to Helena in her second game but won fourth place and brought home the first trophy that has been won.

This year's team showed great ability in every stage of the game. The thing that they lacked more than anything else was practice games; had the team more practice games, it would probably have won first or second place.

Of the six men that represented Great Falls at the tournament this year, five graduate. This is a big handicap for next year's team but if the players will come out and work hard they will turn out a team that will be a credit to the Great Falls High School.

Football

ALTHOUGH the Great Falls High School Football team for 1914 did less than we hoped it would, we are not ashamed of the showing it made. We make no excuse for not winning the game that would have made Great Falls the champions, but we do say that Great Falls gave Butte the hardest game she played this year.

Great Falls started the season with practically the same team she had the year before and through the able coaching of Mr. Crouch succeeded in winning second place in the state. A good deal of the credit is due to the players themselves, but much more is due to the tirelessness with which coach Crouch drilled his men.

This year is the first time that the Great Falls High School had had her team properly equipped, and part of the showing the players made was due to this. The second team was given special attention so when these men start out next fall they will be able to fill the positions left by those who graduate.

Of the eleven that played first team football this year, seven graduate but there is plenty of material with which to fill these vacancies for next year.

Next fall Great Falls will have a light team and a hard schedule, as she will have to play most of her hard games away from home. Much will be expected of the team that wears the blue and white and it is hoped that under the leadership of George Lambert and Coach Crouch that Great Falls will win the championship for 1915.

The Bozeman Tournament

March 5 to 8, 1915

WEDNESDAY—Train leaves for Helena at seven-thirty a. m. After much hurrying and crowding, everyone gets on the train in time. Case surprises everybody by being at the station fully two minutes before the train leaves. On the way to Helena, Hagen, Freeman, and Lanway play the national indoor pastime while Ivarson reads Lorna Doone because he should have handed in a paper on it before he left. On the train are the teams of Havre and Eureka. We reach Helena about eleven-thirty and after searching in vain for a Jitney we enjoy a hair raising ride on one of Helena's apple box street cars. Before the street car is entirely stopped at the N. P. Station, the coach charges madly out of the car into the station. He makes a centre rush into the ticket line, but is thrown back with a ten yard loss, and the team arrives on the scene in time to pick him up. He is somewhat dazed but pluckily returns into the line and in about a half hour he comes out waving the tickets triumphantly over his head. Here the Helena team with a bunch of rooters join the crowd. Alarmed by the condition of our stomachs we decide to go into the dining car. As we come out Hagen just escapes being discovered, swiping a handful of quill tooth-picks, by the conductor. After dinner again the indoor pastime is played. Freeman decides to get industrious and struggles through a hundred pages of Quentin Durward for Miss Stone and then gives up in disgust. We arrive in Bozeman about three-thirty p. m. and are met by the reception committee, among whom are Hagen, Steele, and Sweat. Arriving up town we get our badges at the Bozeman Hotel and are assigned sleeping quarters at the Gallatin Hotel. Freeman and Hagen go down on their knees to the coach and he finally permits them to sleep together, although having some strong remembrances of the Missoula trip. There are several other teams lodged at the hotel. Hagen and Freeman rush madly up stairs, select the best room, and then wait for events to happen. Things do happen. Jordan says he is not going to sleep in his room and that he would rather sleep in a garbage can. However, Jordan and Ivarson had to take the room and then, of course, blamed us. That afternoon we go out to the College and the team used their fifteen-minute practice period and then all are shown around the College. We eat lunch at Best's Cafe and then go to a show. Hagen had to be dragged in to it by the rest of the bunch, because of some beautiful (?) girls that were attending a revival meeting. Hagen insists that we all go to the meeting, but, we stay only until they start to collect money and then rush hastily out. Hence we go to our rooms for a good night's sleep.

Class Motto—Not merely to exist, but amount to something, is life.

Just Think

When the sun goes down and the shadows fall, Do you ever stop to think That each hour that has passed can ne'er be recalled, No matter how it has been spent? Do you think of the little acts and words That have caused some heart to grieve? Do you think of the little smile you could give To cause a frown to leave?	Do you think when you shun the little tasks, That the large ones harder grow? Do you think when you strike at another's name, Will it rebound, blow for blow? Do you think when you wake with the sun in the east, That the day's toil has just begun, For the song that has lived a thousand years, Has never been perfectly sung?
Do you think that the little sins you do, Must be paid for bye and bye? Do you think how the fault another must bear When you heedlessly tell a lie? Do you think how the hours you spent in toil Shall have their own reward? Do you think of the harm that will come to your plans If you put your pleasure before?	Do you think of your friends who are longing to see, Your smiling instead of your frown? Do you think that to see the beautiful things, You look upwards instead of down? If you stop ere you judge, or speak, or act, You will think of what the end will bring; Your friends shall be dearer, your works more great, Don't grumble—remember to sing.

President's Address

LADIES and gentlemen and fellow-students:—The Class of 1915 of the Great Falls High School bids you welcome. We extend our welcome especially to the school board, who has provided us with such bounteous opportunities, to Mr. Largent and to the teachers of the faculty, who have, during our four years in the High School, devoted themselves so faithfully to our interest and welfare. Some of us are now awakened to the fact that our journey on the smooth and level highway of education has come to an end. We must now get out and work for ourselves on that rough and narrow road which has only one destination, success. There are many gates on this road through which we have to pass, some of them leading to a life of toil and hardship, while others lead to an easy pathway; but there is one key and only one that is sure to unlock all these gates and that key, the key of education.

Now that we have completed our high school course the question is asked. Has the time spent in school been worth our while, will it help us to make a success in this world? Or would it not have been better for us to have left school at the end of the eighth grade and have a bank-book with $200 or $300 to our credit?

The school may not teach a person how to make money, but it does create in him a desire or ambition to go on, to search for still more and extensive knowledge. It keeps the highest ideals of morality, truth, and virtue before him during his entire school life; it develops a true spirit of fellow-sympathy in all the students and breeds in every person in the school a spirit of loyalty.

It is in the high school that we mould our characters, form our habits, and prepare ourselves for the great task that is awaiting us as soon as we are out of school.

It is not what we are said to be, it is what we prove ourselves to be; and to do this we must "Perform that humble simple duty of the day, to serve in our post; be faithful and obey, for he who serves her truly sometimes saves the day."

—PAUL F. HAGEN, '15.

Class Poem

Good Bye, dear old G. F. H. S.
Our school days now are through.
Tomorrow we go out in life
Where all seems strange and new;
And gazing from our portals
Into that far off place,
It seems touched with a roseate glory
As if the sun with his golden face
Still hidden beyond the eastern height
Is painting the land of the Future
With the glowing morning light;
And over its rolling meadows
A wandering zephyr blows.
Laden with promises sweeter
Than the breath of a dewy rose;
While into this wonderful country
Out from your doorway wide
Faintly we trace our paths of life,
Stretching on every side.
And some toil up the mountain
Till they reach its rosy peak,
The pinnacle of high success,
The goal for which men seek;
And others lie through the valley
Trodden by kindly feet,
Where deeds of love are more than Fame
And where true hearts together beat;
And some may lie, we know not where,
But whatever we may do,
Or wherever we go the wide world o'er
We'll always be true to you.

—BEE KAUFFMAN.

Class History

ON a bright day in September in nineteen hundred eleven, the wondrous class of nineteen-fifteen entered the prison walls when Mr. Wiggin was warden. Of the victims thirty-four were boys and forty-seven girls, and when we gained our freedom we numbered twenty-seven boys and thirty-nine girls, surpassing all other classes in quantity and will let others say whether we also surpass them in quality. Some of these have been taken into another department of this gloomy prison, while others have been transferred to other instruments of torture where they have served their terms. Keith Griswold has graduated in Illinois; Dorothy Race in Anaconda, Montana; Gordon Curran in Le Sueur, Minn., and Mary Regan and Lucille Brady from the Academy of this city. The remainder were unable to live through the zeros and "dummeits" and so have fallen by the wayside. Several thought that "hubby" would be kinder to them than the prison wardens on whom they looked with fear and trembling and in accordance escaped in spite of the watchfulness of their parents and torturers. Of this class are Fern Forrest, Gladys Robinson, and Edna Holmquist. We regret to say that three of our number have died, Winifred Stinchcomb, Colonel Everts, and Berkeley Largent.

In the midst of these are many renowned foot ball and basket ball champions and several who have carried off honors because of their work on the track. Several of the girls played in the basket ball team in their senior year but were conquered by the villainous Sophmores.

Many were the troubles which besieged us: algebra, geometry, trigonometry, chemistry, physics, and last, but not least, Latin with all its toils and tribulations until we were haunted not only by Caesar's ghost, but by Cicero's and Virgil's too.

Two of the bright and shining lights were sent to Bozeman to represent the woman's clubs in the Second Annual Vocational Congress for Girls, and many of the boys have gone to Bozeman and Missoula to play foot ball and basket ball.

We are the sons and daughters of the Revolutionary, Civil, Franco-Prussian, and the War of 1812, wars and have fought at Waterloo. One of our grand uncles was a private secretary of General McClellan during the Civil war. Our ancestors have witnessed the assassination of President Lincoln, have been the private secretary to Queen Elizabeth, and have been pirate princes. General Warren was one of our illustrious ancestors and several of our relatives are now fighting in the European war. We have been to Norway, England, France, and Scotland and to the Isle of Man to capture cats. We have seen all parts of the United States and part of Canada, which travels have helped to increase our great knowledge (?). We represent many different churches, including the Mormon denomination.

In height we are 4186 inches, and in weight we are 8030 pounds. That we have a good understanding can be seen by the great length of our feet which is 564.75 inches. Please do not think we have the big head just because our heads measure 1419.25 inches. Our hands measure 465.5 inches.

In our Senior year we chose as our motto, "Not merely to exist but to amount to something is life," which shows our noble and high ideals (?).

At last our term is ended and we are let out to freedom by the warden who now is Mr. Rae, some of us go to other rock piles, there to wear away our lives, and others to take up business cares, and all to say farewell to the old gray walls, to the instructors who have helped us, and to each other.

—ESTHER CRUM.

Senior Class Will

WTE, the company recognized as the class of 1915, being about to leave this land of bliss, where we have sojourned for four long and happy years do on this day of departure bequeath our possessions or those which we think we possess to those remaining.

First: Since we have been unable to bear the burden of our financial difficulties we transfer them to the class following with the hope that they may prove better financiers than their predecessors.

Second: To Mr. S. D. Largent and the members of school board we tender our sincere thanks for many favors bestowed upon us during our four years in high school. To Mr. Rae and the members of the faculty we tender thanks and appreciation for their past kindness and forbearance.

Third: Paul Freeman and Roy Johnson, the business managers of the Roundup bequeath their positions on the staff to David Wertheim and Nelson Hall with firm confidence in their ability to keep up the reputation of the Roundup.

Fourth: Mr. Paul Hagen, the honorable senior class president, resigns in favor of Mr. Clifford Ellis, who has been endorsed by his class as being a very capable man to fill such a responsible position.

ROUNDUP

Fifth: The members of the Senior class do announce the following changes in honorary positions:

Helen Sweat bequeaths her beauty to Theresa Auerbach.

Catherine Flaherty bequeaths her cuteness to Margaret Wood.

Oscar Anderson and George Lambert take the place of Norman Gillette and Frank Jordan as athletes of the school.

Frances Longeway and Florence Skinner bequeath their ability to sing to Mildred Chichester and Esther Baarson.

Lloyd Holzberger bequeaths his position as bluffer to Ashton Jones.

James Berky will his ability to eat other peoples' lunches to Grant Mill.

Roy Johnson gives to Alfred Prior his envied position as laziest.

Rose Pogreba bestows her dignity to Cecil Ristow.

Norman Gillette wills his conceit to Arthur Strain.

Paul Freeman bequeaths his oratorical powers to Cecil Ristow.

Sixth: To the Juniors we bequeath our dignity according to the custom of the departing seniors. To the Sophmores our recipe for reducing large heads. Nothing is left to give the Freshmen except our knowledge and that we are taking with us.

Seventh. We nominate and appoint Mr. James Rae as executor of this our last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof, we have this 10th day of June A. D., 1915, set our hand.

THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1915.

Signed in the presence of us, who at their request and in their presence and in the presence of each other, have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses thereto:—

MARY MILLEGAN.

CATHERINE FLAHERTY.

FLORENCE SKINNER.

ROUNDUP

1930

A most curious file of old papers was found yesterday in a garret on the North Side, some of them dating back as far as 1915. Such items as these were found.

Are you in love? Let me advise you—Ethel McDermand.

Jitney bus business is progressing under the skillful management of Vidah Robertson.

Mr. Gerald Case has filed his application as assistant superintendent of Great Falls High School.

Gymnastic training for girls, Irish method.—Frances Longeway.

Staple groceries.—Emil Hanson.

Funk & Wagnall have recently published Otto Smith's new Latin Idiom Book.

All beauty chats in this paper are furnished by Chetoe Thompson.

Must give correct age—Attorney General Paul Freeman has just rendered an opinion that women must give their exact age when they register. This decision is the result of the refusal of Beatrice Turner, Edna McDermand, and Lenora Barker to divulge their ages.

Barbering—Ladies' switches a specialty.—James Rowe.

Discovery—Fred Chichester of Ecklacka University has discovered the elixir of life.

Onion seeds sent free.—Winifred McGeorge.

Esther Crum, the librarian, announces the arrival of her book, "War on Gophers."

James Berky won the International Pie Eating contest held here yesterday.—London News.

The Chair of English at Oxford has been accepted by Donald Ross after careful deliberation.

Fire Sale—Suits are really burned.—Lloyd Holzberger.

Catherine Flaherty and Helen Sweat are achieving a screaming success in their original tragedy "The Hearts We Have Killed," at the Grand. Manager Gerald Case announces the appearance next week of Rose Pogreba and Anna Baatz, ballet dancers.

A prominent suffragette, Christina Wilson, was arrested in the streets of Pittsburg for slapping the face of the Governor because he refused to listen to her plea.

Husbands Wanted—Big demand—state financial resources, details of physiognomy unnecessary. May Brennan and Grace Taylor, Cascade, Montana.

Elsie Nordquist's new essay "High Standard of Living" for sale.

A self-starter for the Ford has been patented by Earl Fowler.

Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Bonnie Gilman on next Thursday.—Slide Street.

Clista Lease is keeping books at the Electric City Conservatory.

Earl Clark has petitioned the City Council for better service of the Street Railway to the West Side.

Kenneth Potee, director of the "Trot of the Globe," has made his final selection of girls for the Chorus. The work is to begin immediately.

Siwash County will be represented at the Men's Rights Convention by Glenn Watson.

ROUNDUP

Couldn't Roll a Peanut.

Four policemen were unable to protect Miss Ruth Kanne from the crowd that threatened to overwhelm her when she attempted to roll a peanut around the City Hall at noon today. Miss Kanne was paying the penalty for believing that Mr. No! was to be re-elected mayor.

The death of several dogs has resulted from eating cake made by Ethel Parker and Elsie Fletcher of the local Domestic Science school.

SEE! SEE! Big Side Show—
Siamese Twins—Veva Poole and Marguerite Duncan.
Renowned Toad Trainer—Eva Thrall
Famous Equestrienne—Mabel Jones.
Tiny Woman—Katherine Eisenbart
Evil Man—Howard Canary

Norman Gillette will soon be brought to trial for unnecessary attention to Ethel Robinson.

Frank Jordan is now head of the Post Hole Department of the Boston Construction Association.

Considerable anxiety is being felt in diplomatic circles because of the failure of Reid Lanway, ambassador to the Sandwich Islands, to protect Cornelia Haag and Hilda McCready missionaries, from the ravenous appetites of the man-eating cannibals.

Paul Hagen was finally married to Miss Frozelly today by the Reverend Arne G. Rae.

The new fad, bashfulness, is being taught by the capable teachers, Alice Kinread and Olga Marohn.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in court in behalf of Raymond Dalve, charged with the illegal transportation of explosives.

Dancing Academy.—Mlle. Grace Taylor of Great Falls and Mr. Werner Bloomdahl announce that they will soon open an academy for the terpsichorean art at their new parlors.

Mary Milligan is now posing for Bee Kauffman's new picture, "Feeding the Lamb." It is understood that the picture will be a success because of the poser's previous experience.

Walter Stone is trying for Freshman Track(well) under the supervision of Coach Henry Lillquist.

Roy Johnson and Roy Tobey in behalf of the United Sons of Rest are touring the Northwest giving demonstrations of their individual arts.

Ellen Ryan, Juanita Davison, and Florence Skinner, members of the Old Maids' Society, will give a play entitled "Why Did He Do It."

Dear Harper:

Enclosed find the check for the Roundup and credit the same to me. Wishing the Senior Class a prosperous year and the Roundup a profitable one, I remain,

Your sincere friend,

Morris L. Bridgeman.

This letter was received with a check of five dollars for the Roundup from Morris Bridgeman, who for two years was business manager of this paper. The Roundup extends its hearty thanks to Mr. Bridgeman for not forgetting his home school.

GRADUATING CLASS
OF 1915

ROUNDUP

Paul Hagen

Don't you wish there were more like him.—Paul Hagen.

I, Paul Hagen, was born in St. Paul, Minnesota, January 19, 1897. My parents are of Norwegian and Dutch descent. I came to Great Falls when I was six years old. I entered the grade schools at the McKinley School and now graduate from the commercial course. I played right tackle on the 1915 football team and right forward on the basketball team, going to the tournament held at Bozeman. I also played on the class base-ball team and was captain for three years. I was President of the class during my senior year.

Katherine Eisenbart

On her cheeks an autumn flush
Deeply ripened—such a blush!
—Katherine Eisenbart

I, Katherine Eisenbart, was born on a ranch near Sand Coulee, February 10, 1898. I am of German descent. My school days began in 1904 in a little country school about one mile from my home. With the exception of one year, one-half in Sand Coulee and the other half in Neilhart, all my graded school life was there in that school. In 1911, I entered High School and graduate this year from the classical course. I represented this high school at the Second Vocational Congress for Girls at Bozeman this year. I am Vice-President of my class.

ROUNDUP

I believe I envy the Freshies, they have it all coming yet.—Clista Lease.

Its been a long way to June '15.—
Mary Brennan.

ROUNDUP

A Commencement Day Ode

No more "Gliding down life's river,"
No more "Drifting out to sea,"
No more "Farewell, Thee, kind teacher."

Willie has taken his degree.

No more "Sad the parting words we utter,"

No more "Let us ever faithful be,"
No more "Tender memories fondly cherished,"

Willie has taken his degree.

No more "Brave the world with firm endeavor,"

No more "Strive to do the best we can,"

No more "Thou the world that we are in it,"

Willie now is quite a man.

But like rough old Columbus
With a bravery unsurpassed,
I gamely read the old book thru
And passed the stuff at last.

O fate, why art thou wicked?
As that third year came apace
You took away my History
And put German in its place.

And then my troubles new began,
And I was never free,
Until I simply had to quit,
For I got thirty-three.

It happened in a pretty way
I never shall forget;
For even were my bones decayed
I'd think about that yet.

O fate, I thought you kind to me,
When, weak but still alive,
Behind a single credit,
Then my subjects changed to five.

O yes, I thought you really kind
E'en when Miss Kuck did say
That I had a condition
To be worked off right away.

There with those flowers in full bloom,

Yes, I would graduate.
I sank in German quicksand
Till I couldn't extricate.

And when the others, on the stage
Do bow and leave the school,
I'll think about that thirty-three
And remember I'm a fool.

A Wail

Oh, it was on the judgment day,
And each man here on earth
Was counting up the deeds he'd done
To see what he was worth.

There came a moan from the swaying crowd

As each soul did depart,
But one voice heard above the rest
Said, "Miss Kuck, have a heart!"

Oh, fate, but thou art wicked
To a poor old boob like me,
Who had some ears but used them not,

Some eyes but could not see.

'Twas but a few scant years ago
A Freshman I became;
I thought the lessons simple,
And some were really tame.

But oh, thou wickedest of all,
That ever wicked was!

I started in on Caesar
And my head began to buzz.

After the section containing the cut of the Class officers had gone to Press we find that we made a mistake in two of the titles under this cut. Elsie Fletcher should be secretary instead of vice president and Katherine Eisenhart should be vice president instead of secretary.

Assemblies

The Thursday morning assemblies have been an excellent feature of the past school year. Twice Mr. Heimlich has entertained us with singing and story telling. Miss Schafer of the local English department told of her trip through Europe and Miss Virginia Schafer has appeared twice in musical entertainments. Mrs. Grace A. Wait gave a concert with the Victor, a recent addition to the music department. Addresses have been given by Rev. E. L. White, Rev. E. F. Ghormely, and Rev. V. B. Scott. The talk on forest reserves by Mr. Scott Leavitt will be remembered with interest by the school. Dr. Reynolds, of the English department at the University of Montana addressed the students on the subject of entering college, and Miss Jensen gave an interesting talk on domestic science. Mr. Fox of the local Y. M. C. A. gave a talk on student life and Mr. White, president of the O-See-Tah club spoke to us in the interests of that organization. Dr. Patterson gave an assembly of piano selections, and Mr. Blanchard, county agriculturist spoke to the students on farming. The mid-year graduating exercises took place at one of our weekly assemblies. An assembly was given by Mr. Arkin, who exhibited his reproductions of the world's masterpieces. At the installation of the high school savings bank, Mr. Skinner addressed the students on the school savings bank system.

Hamilton Steel had charge of the installation of the long distance wireless at the Montana State College which can receive and send messages from Washington, D. C. He was appointed with one other student to answer all questions regarding wireless instruments and their uses. In March he gave an illustrated talk in the Hydro-Electric plant that has just been completed near Great Falls. The pictures were taken by him during the summer. He is a member of the college Glee Club and also a member of the Male Quartette. He accompanied President Hamilton of the State College in an illustrated lecture around the state, running the stereopticon machine for him.

David Steel is president of the Junior class at the Montana State College, and assistant editor of the college annual. He took part in the Triangular Debate and was captain of the college debating team which went to Spokane to debate with Gonzaga College team. He played the solo cornet of the college band.

The mid-year graduating exercises of the class consisting of Maud Collins and Myrtle Duncan were held on February fourth in the High School auditorium. The Programme consisted of an address by Supt. S. D. Largent, a piano solo by Bessie Clark, a violin solo by Marjorie Grover, and a selection by the High School Chorus.

Miss Catherine Hill of Randolph, Mass., left for her home Christmas Eve. She was at the head of the Oratory Department of the school since September.

Clara Steege '03 is married.

The Roundup extends sincere thanks to Cornelia Haag, Elsie Nordquist, Christina Wilson, Chetoe Thompson, and Esther Crum for the advertisements secured by them.

On December eighteenth a play, "The Russian Romance" was very successfully produced under the supervision of Miss Hill.

On April 13, Mrs. Vivian Cameron of Boston gave a very delightful and entertaining reading of "Peg Woffington" for the benefit of the Woman's Club Scholarship. Miss Pearl Clark '13 received the scholarship in the University of Montana, at Missoula from the Great Falls Club.

David Steel was one of the three engineering students who made a map, ten by twelve, which showed accurately the dimensions and shape of the grounds, the location and dimensions of all the buildings, steam pipe lines, water mains, sewers, sidewalks, drive-ways, tennis court, and car track. A blue print was made of this and was sent to the State Legislature for reference when the needs of the college came up for discussion. In one corner of the map is a full statistical account of the buildings and grounds.

He also won the three mile cross-country race at Bozeman.

ROUNDUP

The Rev. Manfred Lilliefors will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on June 6.

Miss Dryden, Miss Frost, Miss Traxler, and Miss Simpson will spend the summer on the Pacific coast.

Miss Seevers will spend the summer at Summer School, Berkeley, California.

We have received the following exchanges this semester:

The Dawsonian—You have made a good beginning and your illustrations are very good.

The Nugget—Your stories are good but you have not enough cuts.

The Palmer—Your paper is fine. More cuts would improve it.

The Troubadour—Your selections are splendid.

The Dial—Your book is excellent. It might be longer.

The Cereal—Your cuts and stories are good. How about a few more jokes?

The Ocksheperida—You have not enough stories.

The Odessaite—You have plenty of cuts. We like that.

The Rocky Mountain Leader—We appreciated your book.

The Big Stack—A small but well put up book.

The Prospector—A very neat paper.

M.—You have a fine literary department.

The Oread—A good paper.

The Register—Why not a few cuts.

The Prospector—Send us your book again.

"The Best to be had"
Is a wonderful ad,
To show what we have in our school,
And if you come here,
Just cheer up, my dear,
But always follow the rule.

Students are at some time masters of their fate.
Study now, before 'tis too late.
—Selected.

L. Holzberger (in German)—Elizabeth dropped her hands overboard.

Teacher—"Why were you tardy for class?"

Student—"Class began before I got here."

(In German) Johnson—Why is that noun in the dative case?

Holzberger—Don't ask why, that's German.

Life is short—only four letters in it. Three-quarters of it is a "lie" and half of it an "if."—Selected.

Olga Marohn (in Civics)—I believe that foreigners should have a test of literacy before becoming citizens of the United States, but President Wilson doesn't.

Student—"I have no more room on my paper, where shall I work this problem?"

Teacher—"Work it in your head, there is a lot of room."

Mr. Tucker—Does anybody here see anybody that's absent?

A Freshman is green on the surface;

A Sophomore is polished a bit;

A Junior is there if there's fun in it;

But a Senior is simply "It."

It's nice to be a favorite,
It's nice to be a shark;
It's nice to be a teacher's pet,
And not have to toe the mark;
It's nice to get your studies,
And not have to sit up late;
It's even nice to be "Freshie,"
But to be a SENIOR'S great.

—L. Stenson.

You can always tell a Senior,
For He's so sedately gowned;
You can always tell a Junior,
By the way he struts around;
You can always tell a Sophomore,
By his lordly look and such;
You can always tell a Freshie,
But you cannot tell him much.

Isabel Brown—Reading (Let sleeping dogs lie.) "Let lying dogs sleep."

Freshmen (in Chemistry laboratory); I smell cabbage burning.

Near-by Senior—If you move your head away from that gas jet, you won't.

Teacher—"Who was Henry Clay?"

Bright Sophomore—"Henry Clay was the inventor of clay pipes."

On the board in Miss Kocken's room—After a peaceful rain of 72 years he died.

ROUNDUP

On styles for Freshmen, just a word—Your neckties should be seen not heard.

Milk famine—not fed.
Starvation—he's dead.

A Freshman.
Self importance—swelled head.
Boxed a Freshman—he's dead!

A Sophomore.
Studies failed him—hopes fled.
Heart's broken—he's dead!

A Junior.
Deep wisdom—lofty tread.
Brain fever—he's dead!

A SENIOR.

A new law of Physics—The mark of a pupil in quiz often varies inversely as the square of the distance to his nearest neighbor.—Ex.

Freshman.—When you find the sum do you add or subtract?
Senior—Multiply.

Want to know something—anything?—Ask Holtzay.

There is a young lady named Sweat,
Whose heart on the movies is set,
As a star on the screen,
She soon will be seen,
And she'll be a Pickford, I'll bet.

Miss Buckmaster (authority on the latest)—"The Romans introduced the "Grapevine" into England.

Miss Dryden (in civics)—Why was there so much trouble between Virginia and Maryland?

Walter Stone—Because the Mason and Dixon's line separated them.

Miss Frost—What is the difference between loyalty and patriotism?

Freshie—Loyalty is when you stand up for a person.

Another Freshman—And patriotism is when you sit down.

(Heard in class meeting)—I move that we do as you moved.

Ruth Kanne (turning an electrostatic machine)—Why doesn't it spark?

Mr. Eastman—I wouldn't blame it if it would.

Go to bed when you please
And lie at your ease,
You'll die just the same of some Latin disease.

Holzberger (translating German: Darauf befahl er einem Pagen)—Thereupon he ordered a ——— page, servant or a sheet of paper, which is it?

J. Wiegand, (in German, translating Ich versichere dich)—I search you.

Miss Stone (after reading Lamb's essay on Roast Pig)—"Name some meats secured from a pig."

E. Thrall—"Liver."

Miss Stone—"Liver can be secured from any animal."

E. Thrall—"Not pig liver."

There are meters of accents,
And meters of tone,
But the best of all meters,
Is to meet her alone.

Notices valuable to Juniors, Freshmen and Sophmores and all others concerned:

Dorothy Duncan has recently advertised the following—Classes in Cicero, 8:30-9:00, also first year Latin classes. German sentences translated, and jobs in Geometry and Algebra —Prices reasonable—none but grafters need apply.

Helen Strain—Interior decorating of school books artistically done—Prices very reasonable while the season lasts.

ROUNDUP

W. Bloomdahl (In English)—"Cambridge is a suburb of Boston."

Silently one by one, in the grade
books of our teachers,
Blossom the direful zeros, the forget-me-nots of our failures.

Mrs. Cameron—What is the meaning of eulogy?

Bright Senior—I think it is an extract.

Mrs. Cameron—What kind? Vanilla or lemon?

Questions to the right of me,
Questions to the left of me,
Questions in front of me
Written and thundered,
Stormed at with "why" and "tell,"
Boldly I wrote and well,
With never a resting spell,
Grades came and went pell-mell
And thus went away my one hundred.

Freshman—Irresponsible.

Sophomore—Irrepressible.

Junior—Irresistible.

Senior—Irreproachable.

—Selected.

Winnifred Meeks—"Der Geld."

Miss Kuck—"No, money is neuter."

Winnie—"Well I thought that money always belonged to the masculine."

Theresa Auerbach (in German)—I am sewing myself a button for me on.

Sleepers' Club

Grand Sleeper—Werner Bloomdahl.

Vice Grand Sleeper—Raymond Dalve.

Chancellor—Frank Osborne.

Sergeant of Dreams—Gerald Case.
Motto:—

Oh Sleep, it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole!

To Mary Queen the praise be given,
She sent the gentle sleep from Heaven

That slid into their souls.

Found on an English paper—"Varney suffered death as a result of suicide."

Frank—Ahem—ah-ohem!

Florence—Well?

Frank—Florence, do you suppose your ma would be willin' to be my mother-in-law?

Mr. Eastman (in Physics)—Does a horse perspire more when he is lying down or carrying a heavy load?

Bright Senior—Doesn't a horse perspire when he runs?

In Geometry:—

Bright Pupil—"If one side of a triangle is produced, what is to prevent the other two sides from being brought forward?"

Myrtle Duncan (in American History)—The Cabots came over to America to fish.

Frances Longeway—Bacon changed inductive reasoning to conductive reasoning.

J. Weigand (translating German)
—Angenacht an den Hansrock meines Mannes—Sewed on the housecoat of my husband.—Sewed on my house-dress by my husband.

Lloyd Holzberger (translating German which should read: You also cry)
—"Back you cry out: backup."

Frank Osborne—Will run from room 49 to room 5 to see a brown-eyed girl?

Father—"Do you study diligently at school?"

Son—"No, father, I don't think there is such a study in High School."

(Sophomore in Latin Class, declining Mos.) Nominative, Mos; Genitive, moses.

ROUNDUP

Teacher—"Have you been through Algebra?"

Student—"Yes, sir, but I went through it in the night and didn't see much of the place."

Mrs. Cameron—What is elocation?

Bright Pupil—It's the way they put people to death in some states.

Miss Stone—Define lineaments.

Joseph Weigand—Limbs.

Holzberger (when names of preachers were being suggested for the baccalaureate sermon)—Don't you think we had better put the churches after the names, so we will know what church they belong to?

Forrest Longeway (talking about kodak films)—"4x5 are large enough."

Lena Cockrill (believing the topic to be what she was speaking about)—"I would like to see anybody wear a 4x5 shirt."

Elsie Fletcher (in Virgil)—Menclaus was the wife of Helen.

Miss Kuck (in German 11B)—Mr. Stearns, if there are to be any refreshments, we would all like some.

Stearns—All right, I think I have enough to go around.

H. Sweat (in Physics)—What makes the moon shine?

F. Stearns (in Civics.)—Are we going to have a lesson for the holidays?

Miss Dryden—Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

F. Stearns—Well, it's troubling me.

(In Am. Hist. Class)—"There are three parties, the republicans, democrats, and the politicians."

F. Jordan (translating, Ich mochte die Augen zumachen)—I like to close my eyes)—I like to look into your eyes.

P. Freeman (in Virgil)—He feeds his empty mind with the picture.

W. Bloomdahl (translating German)—One sees many servant girls here without hats and coats and with only their aprons on.

E. Fletcher (in Virgil)—Olympus was a mountain in the sky.

A. Woehner (in Civics, naming state schools)—The penitentiary at Deer Lodge.

H. McCready (translating German)—The people take a sandwich in a satchel to eat.

Lloyd Holzberger (translating German)—The others have all drunken their coffee.

J. Marshall (in American History)—The Dutch settled in the Hudson river.

Bright Senior (in Virgil)—The eye to him having been poked out.

Miss Dryden (after assigning a particularly hard lesson)—"You may think I'm a bear."

Reid Lanway—"You are, you are."

M. Tronson (translating in German)—that we might live or love"—I don't know which it is.

Miss Kuck—It's love.

M. Tronson—I always get mixed up in that.

Holzberger (in translating German, Ich trug ein weisses Kleid, mit roten Karneolknopfchen verziert) I carried a white dress with red button holes.

Berky (in Physics)—What does "g" in the problem stand for?

Mr. Eastman—That's more than I'll stand for.

ROUNDUP

Fred Chichester (in Virgil)—A syllable is long if it has a vowel preceded by a continent.

Jordan (in Physics)—Shall I make a top view of this instrument?

Mr. Eastman—If you were going to have your picture taken, would you have a top view taken?

Freshman to Senior—Is that an emerald ring you are wearing?

Senior—No, it is a diamond with the reflection of your face in it.

Mr. Eastman—Miss Kanne, what makes the tower of Pisa lean?

Miss Kanne—I don't know or I would take some myself.

F. Jordan (translating German)—The dogs rest themselves upon carpet sticks.

B. K. (translating Virgil)—The dewy Iris came down from Heaven and stood on her head.

Jordan (in German, Hatte ich keinen guten Geschmack—Have I not good taste—Have I not good looks?

Mr. Eastman (in Physics)—Now I think you should have a reasonable understanding of the joule.

Paul Freeman.—Is that the kind of a jewel they put in watches?

PIONEER BANK OF CASCADE COUNTY—ORGANIZED 1886

IN the great game of business the support of a strong bank has often meant the difference between success and failure.

Many a successful man can point to the place in his business career where the timely extension of credit proved a stepping-stone to later prosperity.

Our advice to the young men entering business life is:

Start an account with a strong bank.

The Great Falls National Bank welcomes your account. We can be a big factor in helping you succeed, just as we have helped many other young men in this community.

The credit you establish will enable you to take advantage of opportunities without drawing on the funds which you are saving for a possible "rainy day."

"IT'S A GOOD SCHOOL"

WHAT MAKES THIRST?

¶ We wish we knew.

¶ We would give a good deal for a receipt that would enable us to keep all the inhabitants of Great Falls thirsty.

¶ A good thirst is a thing to be treasured. Never waste one on a poor drink. It will pay you every time to wait until you reach our fountain. We keep no one waiting. Promptness does not come first; neither does it come last. Two considerations only are ahead of it—Cleanliness and Quality.

and at STEPHENS' you get all three.

THE Three Most Important Events in a Person's Life are Birth, Marriage and Death, and you need the Furniture Man from start to finish.

Your first important event has passed. Your third event will not come for some time. But the second important event may happen almost any time from now on, and we want you to remember us at that time. We have started many couples on the easy road to home building. We want every reader of "The Roundup" to know our store and what it can do for you. Hundreds, yes, thousands of people have walked a block and saved that many dollars.

TRY IT YOURSELF

Metropolitan Furniture Company

"If you wish to know whether or not you will be a success in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible. CAN YOU SAVE MONEY? If not you will lose. You may not think so, but you will lose as sure as you live. THE SEED OF SUCCESS IS NOT IN YOU."
